CHARLESTON RELIEVED.

Commander Laine of the Geo. W. DeLong Post has received notice through the usual official channels that the Mayor of Charleston declares there is no further need of contributions in aid of the recent sufferers at Charleston.

On the same night that Mr. E. R. Hendry's house was burglarized, somebody stole a set of harness from the residence of Mr. II. Berger. The barness was in the carriage house, and the burglar, after trying the door and failing to open it, effected an entrance by breaking a pane of glass in the window. He must have broken the glass with his fist, as blood was visible about the window and on the floor. The Chinese servant heard the noise, but was too much frightened to get up or call out. Nothing except the harness was taken.

OUR HANSARD. Our reports of the legislative proceedings of the session of 1886 is now published in book form, consisting of 744 pages, including a comprehensive "table of contents," carefully prepared by a gentleman who has taken a deep interest in the work during its progress through the press. These reports are impartial and entirely free from any partizan bias. The book is on sale at Mr. Soper's (formerly Oat & Co.'s), Merchant street, Mr. T. G. Thrum's, Fort street, and the Daily Bulletin Office. The price s $3.00.

BURGLARY AT THE ANCHOR SALOON.

Although Chung Hook, the Chinese desperado and burglar, is clothed in a prison costume, the reign of terror has not ended. When Chung Hook was at liberty burg-laries were reported daily and people were afraid to sleep at nights. On his capture the women folks felt relieved, and their fears gradually faded away. But of late new depredators have sprung up, and the poign of terror is being kindled afresh. The chicken stealing at Mr. Waterhouse's, the stealing of the sewing machine from St. Andrew Priory, the burglary at Mr. Hendry's, the breaking open of a trunk on Alakea street, the burglary at Mr. Berger's, and the robbery of the Anchor Saloon night before last, show that plunderers are yet at large, and give rise to the question of "whose next?"

The Anchor Saloon robbery was committed by somebody with greasy hands and dirty bare feet, who with the assistance of a piece of scantling, climbed up to the transom of the side door, and thus got into the saloon. He got $4,50 out of the till, took two bottles of liquor, and after trying the safe without effecting an opening, decamped by the way he entered, leaving no clue to his identity.

THE JUBILEE BALL.

The disagreeable drizzle of the early part of last evening was sufficient to make the atmosphere and streets unpleasant for locomotion, and undoubtedly militated against the ball to the extent of preventing the attendance of some invited guests who would otherwise have been present. But by eight o'clock, and from that time forward, the sky was clear, and the atmosphere calm and cool, contributing in the first degree to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The entrance to and exit from the Palace grounds were brilliantly lighted by electricity, making the streets at the outside of the enclosure as well as the drives and walks inside almost as light as day. The Palace and the large lanai adjoining, recently erected for the Juoilee festivities, were similarly illuminated. Decorations of flags greenery, etc., were profuse and appropriate. The dancing was in the lanai just now referred to, the floor of which was specially prepared for that purpose, and near it was stationed the Royal Hawaiian Band, that fur-

The guests, as they arrived, were politely received and assiduously attended to throughout the evening by His Majesty's Chamberlain and assistants. This was a very pleasing feature in the arrangements, that added no trifle to the pleasure of all participating, and is here recorded to the credit of those concerned.

The company was large and gay, and presented a magnificent picture cent being valueless, the drug can with every bottle. Benson Smith & under the dazzling electric light.

The first set, opening the ball, and dancing the Royal Hawaiian Lancers, was comprised of His Majesty the King and H. R. H. Princess Liliuokalani, H. R. H. Princess Likelike and H. H. Prince Kawa-nanakoa, His Excellency Mr. Gibson and Mrs. L. Aholo, His Excellency Mr. Aholo and Mrs. Antone Rosa, Hon. A. S. Cleghorn and Mrs. Wodehouse, His Excellency Mr. Rosa and Mrs. C. P. Iaukea, Mr. Taro Ando and Miss Stella Keomailani, Major S. Parker and Mrs. Taro

The ball being opened, dancing was kept up with vigor until past midnight, allowing of one long interual for supper, between 11 and 12 o'clock, and other shorter intervals for rest. The supper comprised every luxury that money and energy could procure, and was elegantly spread. Appetites sharpened by the exercise of the dance prepared the guests for its full enjoyment.

Up to the present number of the Jubilee programme, the Grand Ball may be marked as the most successful event of the series.

NEWS BY THE MOKOLII. The steamer Mokolii had some rough weather on her last up trip to Molokai. On Monday last, while landing at Kalaupapa, the boat was dashed onto the rocks and stove in. The crew jumped before the boat struck. Some made shore, while others swam outward. Another boat was lowered from the steamer and the crew picked up. The damaged boat was left at Kalaupapa. Gentle rains have been falling on Molokai of late, and the island looks green, especially at Kaunakakai. The steamer made an extra trip to Maui with cattle from Molokai.

BILLIARD MATCHES.

A series of billiard matches have been made between Lon Morris and J. F. B. McCleery, to be played as follows: First game, cushion caroms, Morris to play 300 points to McCleery's 250, at the Commercial billiard rooms this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The second game will be balk line, 600 points even up, to take place at the Hawaiian Hotel billiard room on Saturday evening. Third game, 1,000 points up straight billiards, at the Commercial billiard rooms on Monday evening. Admission will be free to all these games. A purse of $100 will be given for each game, and an additional $100 for the winner of the series.—P. C. Advertiser

A CLASS MOUNTAIN.

Washington, Oct. 12 .- One of the forthcoming reports of the Geological Survey will contain a paper by Prof. Joseph P. Iddings upon an obsidian cliff in Yellowstone Park. This cliff is an elevation half a mile long by from 150 to 200 feet high, the material of which, Prof. Iddings says, "is as good a glass as any artificially manufactured." Its colors and structure not only make it highly interesting to the visitor, but furnish to the scientific investigator phenomena of important. The cliff presents part of the section of a surface flow of obsidian, which poured down an ancient slope from the plateau lying east. It is impossible to determine what the original thickness of this flow was. The dense glass which now forms its lower portion is from seventy-five to one hundred feet thick, while the porous and pumicious portion has suffered from ages of erosian and glacial ac

A remarkable feature of the cliff is the development of prismatic columns, which form its southern extremity, These are of shining black obsidian, rising from the talus slope and are from fifty to sixty feet in height, with diameters varying from two to four feet.

The color of the material of this cliff is for the most part jet black, but much of it is motled and streaked with bright brownish red and various shades of brown, from dark to light yellowish, purplish and olive green. The brilliant luster of the rock and the strong contrast of colors with the black are very striking. In places the glass in the process of cooling has been broken into small angular pieces, which have been again cemented by the later flow, producing many colored and beautiful breegia. In some places the material shows a fine satin luster, while in others a deep golden sheen is noticable, which, under the lens, resolves itself into thin beams of red and yellow light. Through the black and red glass are scattered dull bluish gray patches and bands and round gray and pink masses, the effect of which is to still further vary the appearance and beauty of the rock and make it the most conspicuous and characteristic variety of volcanic lava known .- [N. REMARKABLE IF TRUE,

A correspondent writing to the London Maraing Post says: Dr. Cresswell Hewett of Lincoln's Inn Fields has discovered the synthetical or artificial mode of making quinine, by which the price of that drug will be reduced to something like threepence per ounce. The importance of this discovery (which was made two or three weeks ago through the accidental breaking of a medicine bottle) is hitherto we have been depending for our quinine on the cultivation of the cinchona tree. from whose bark 2 per cent of good quinine can be extracted, 98 per now be manufactured without limit | Co., Agents.

by a very simple process from an article which can always be got in abundance in any part of the world. A few days ago Dr. Hewitt submitted a sample of his preparation to Messrs. Howard & Sons, quinine manufacturers, Stratford, who have expressed surprise at the result of their analysis, the sample being equal to the best quinine in the market. The discoverer is about to communicate with the Government, who annually spend in India alone about £60,000 in the cultivation of the cinchona tree.—[Philadelphia

CEN. BOULANCER'S WONDERFUL DOINGS.

London, Oct. 3.-Gen. Boulanger, the French Minister of War, who is the coming man in France, is not only astounding his own countrymen with the rapid and startling changes he is making in the French army, but is also disturbing the equanimity of all the other nations in Europe. His name is more frequently on the lips of the people than that of any other man in France, and the Due d'Aumale episode, which it was thought at the time would be fatal to him, is now entirely forgotten. Hardly a day passes without one, if not all of the London papers containing some complimentary reference to Boulanger in their special Paris dispatches. This may partly arise from the fact that he is, like M. Waddington, half English, having been born of an English mother at Brighton fortyfive years ago. His latest interesting proposal is that the Chambers should vote a sum of 125,000,000 francs for the equipment of the French army with new mortars and projectiles of monster size and terrible destructiveness. He had the Budget committee of the French Chambers out at Malmaison this week to witness experiments with this new weapon. It discharges a shell three feet long, which has a sharp steel point that enters into the target like a wedge, splintering it into atoms. It demolishes solid stone walls as if they were paper boxes and crushes the thickest steel plates as with perfect ease. One of Gen. Boulanger's new regulatious in the French Army is that the soldiers shall allow their beards to grow. There has been time enough for a practical demonstration of this experiment, and the effect is said to be almost startling. When the Budget Committee of the French Chambers met on Tuesday last to discuss the war estimates, Gen. Boulanger allowed a reduction of 3,000,000 francs in his claim. One item of the reduction was a sum of 5,000 francs for feeding the Government cats, which are employed to catch the rats and mice in the barracks. Each cat in future is to cost only 5 centimes daily for its keep, instead of 6 centimes, as heretofore .-[Special cablegram to St. Louis Republican.
